City targeting July 4 for full reopening

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Madison Mayor Bob Courtney unveiled on Friday morning the city's plan for reopening all departments and services with a goal of returning the community back to full working order by the July 4th holiday.

The city's multi-stage plan was designed to follow the same path outlined by Indiana Gov. Eric Holcomb last week, allowing the city to mirror what is happening in the state as a whole.

Currently, both Indiana and Madison are in Stage 2 of the state's reopening plan, which runs through May 24. In this stage, city services and city hall are open, as are the golf course, dog park and tennis courts. Public meetings are still being held via Zoom while the city's sports leagues, all playgrounds, the skate park, basketball courts, city campground, city docks, the Brown Gym, the Rucker Sports Complex, Crystal Beach pool and the Senior Center all remain closed.

Virtually all of those locations will be reopened when Stage 3 begins on May 24, the lone exceptions being the city sports leagues, Crystal Beach and the Senior Center. The sports league will resume at the start of Stage 4, which begins June 14, with Crystal Beach potentially opening that day as well. The Senior Center, whose patrons are in the highest risk category, will remain closed.

COVID-19 TESTING

PHOTOS BY COLLIN OVERTON

The Indiana State Department of Health began conducting drive-thru COVID-19 testing in Jefferson County Thursday at North Madison Christian Church, 1400 E. St. Road 62, Madison. The testing, which is free and runs through Sunday from 9 a.m to 6 p.m., is open to any symptomatic individual that is a health care worker, first responder, essential worker as well as those who are in a high risk category due to age or underlying health conditions. Testing is also available for those who live in the same residence as someone who is in one of the priority categories. Tests are done from your vehicle using nasal pharyngeal swabs to detect recent infection. In other COVID-19 news, due to a decrease in demand, new hours for the King's Daughters' Health COVID-19 Hotline are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Anyone with COVID-19 concerns on Saturdays and Sundays may call the KDH Convenient Care Center from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 812-273-5372.

SuperATV to cover books, fees for MCS students

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Students attending Madison Consolidated Schools will once again have their textbooks and other fees waived next school year thanks to a donation from local company SuperATV.

The Madison-based company paid for the same fees this past school year and has made the same offer to the school system for the next school season. The Madison School Board of Trustees voted unanimously to accept the gift at Wednesday's monthly school board meeting.

"They have been an amazing partner, not only to us, but to the community as a whole," Madison Superintendent Jeff Studebaker said. "We can't thank them enough for their generosity."

Like last year, SuperATV's gift will cover all book rental fees and other fees for students who are not otherwise eligible for free textbooks. The gift also covers all supply lists needed by teachers.

Studebaker said that a mailing detailing exactly what SuperATV is offering will be sent to everybody in the community in the coming weeks.

The group had just attended Nate's nontraditional "graduation" appointment at the high school library. With normal graduation ceremonies canceled by COVID-19 pandemic crowd restrictions, Southwestern is allowing each senior to receive their diploma as part of a video graduation that will be edited together and premiered for seniors, their families and the public at 7 p.m. on May 29.

Trimble County Schools ACT scores indicate improvement

BY COLLIN OVERTON

Trimble County Schools saw increases in students' ACT scores across the board this year, according to data presented at Tuesday night's Board of Education meeting.

High School students scored an overall composite of 18.96 for the 2019-2020 academic year, slightly below the state average of 19.8 but an improvement over the past few years. The real improvements, however, were in the percentage of students meeting certain benchmarks.

Scores in English and Reading were the school's highest in six years, with 55.1% of students meeting the benchmark on English and 52.2% meeting the benchmark on Reading. The Reading scores were a considerable jump from the previous five years, when scores ranged from about 40% to 49% of students meeting the benchmark. English scores were more in line with those of a few years ago as they improved from 38.4% to 55.1%.

BZA OKs cart sales shop, tables setback request

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Madison's Board of Zoning Appeals Monday cleared the way for a golf cart sales business to locate in the 100 block of Cragmont Street but tabled an application seeking a setback variance to allow up to two garages to be constructed with a common wall in the 200 block of West Second Street.

The golf cart sales business, MPP Rentals LLC, will sell used and refurbished golf carts by appointment only in a small former manufacturing building at 110 Cragmont St., where the city street dead ends and the Heritage Trail property begins.

The golf cart sales business, MPP Rentals LLC, will sell used and refurbished golf carts by appointment only in a small former manufacturing building at 110 Cragmont St., where the city street dead ends and the Heritage Trail property begins.

The business has been before various other local regulatory boards and was granted BZA approval Monday — the main point of concern being a lack of handicapped parking in the area. However, an apartment complex is being developed in the former Tower Manufacturing site nearby with a focus on senior housing so the board was satisfied that the city will surely locate adequate handicapped parking in the area as part of that project.

The board took a much closer review of an application by local Realtor Jim Pruitt seeking a setback variance at 214 and 216 West Second Street to facilitate construction of an accessory building or garage behind both homes. Pruitt said he was selling the homes and wanted to secure the applications in order to be able to market the property with added potential of being able to build a larger garage than would be allowed based on normal property setbacks. Agreeing to share a wall would allow more space for construction or setbacks from other adjoining properties.

The property had come before the Planning Commission earlier on Monday when owner Chris Harper had asked for and received permission to divide a larger lot he owns into four parcels to be sold to adjoining property owners to provide off street parking and possible garages for those homes. Harper said he had commitments on three of the four parcels with Pruitt apparently the party interested in two of the four.

But while the Planning Commission OK'd Harper's application, the Zoning Appeals Board said it needed additional time to study the proposal and have attorney Devon Sharpe research the legality of approving a setback for a proposed future use rather than for an actual project with applications on file.

Zoning Appeals board member Nancy Burkhardt said she "didn't like the precedent" of approving an application for someone other than the property owner who will plan and execute the project and board member Rick Ferris said he did not like "leaving the application open ended."

Pruett said he could build the garages himself before selling the homes but would prefer not to do that and he was just trying to be "proactive rather than reactive" for the next property owner.

Sharpe said one issue is that by approving the setback now for a structure that might not be built for months or years could allow the project to be "lost track of" in terms of completion and offered to do more research to help ease the board's concerns.

Board chairman Scott Baldwin tabled the application until next month to allow that study.

"I'm with Mrs. Burkhardt that this could really open us up to no telling what," Baldwin said.

In other business, the BZA approved a conditional use permit for an apartment complex at 2219, 2223, 2225, 2227 and 2213 Michigan Road. The complex has been there as apartments for more than 40 years but Indiana Apartment Holdings LLC needed the permit update for a loan application. Citing a past record of compliance and recent improvement to the facility, the board agreed to issue the permit for as long as the company owns the property.

Area roads targeted for upgrades

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

Indiana Department of Transportation contractor Three Star Painting Inc. is scheduled to begin painting the S.R. 7 bridge over Middle Fork Creek, south of Dupont in Jefferson County next week.

The project is part of a $1.7 million bridge painting contract in Jackson, Jennings and Jefferson counties.

Crews plan to shift traffic on or after Monday, May 18, weather permitting. Middle Fork Road will close at S.R. 7 once work begins and will remain closed until painting is complete. The contractor is expected to be on site through mid-June.

The last structure on the contract is S.R. 56 over Indian-Kentuck Creek, also in Jefferson County. Work wrapped up on S.R. 258 over the East Fork White River in Jackson County last month and is continuing on S.R. 3 over the Muscatatuck River in Vernon through the end of May.

Workers for Rowe Paving and Concrete Construction were busy this week working for INDOT to patch asphalt on S.R. 56 from Cragmont Street to Jefferson Street. The project repaired several rough spots and cuts in the pavement.

The contract was awarded in November 2019 and is expected to be complete by Oct. 31, 2020. Motorists should slow down, use extra caution and drive distraction-free through all work zones. All work is weather dependent.

Painting is one of many preservation techniques utilized by INDOT to extend the life of bridge structures. Prior to painting, beams and other components are sandblasted to remove existing rust and the new coat of paint acts as a sealant to protect from water, salt and other chemicals that may cause corrosion.

Elsewhere, INDOT contractor Paul H. Rohe Company will be resurfacing asphalt on S.R. 101 in Switzerland County at Markland Dam for the next two to three weeks, weather permitting.

Crews will patch, mill and repave a .20-mile section of roadway between the Kentucky state line and S.R. 156 at Markland Dam.

The contract was awarded in February 2020 for $212,000. Motorists should slow down, use extra caution and drive distraction-free through all work zones.

Meanwhile, Rowe Paving and Concrete Construction was busy working for INDOT this week patching asphalt on S.R. 56 from Cragmont Street to Jefferson Street. The project repaired several rough spots and cuts in the pavement.

Brandt charged in battery of infant

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

A day after posting on social media that an arrest warrant had been issued for a Madison man for aggravated battery in connection with a child abuse case and police were seeking information on his location, Madison Police had James J. Brandt Jr. in custody.

James J. Brandt Jr.

Brandt, 25, Madison, was arrested on a warrant for aggravated battery, a Level 3 felony, and false informing, a Class A misdemeanor, in connection with an abuse case that left a 5-month-old infant with what has been described as a near fatal brain hemorrage on April 24.

The case began when Madison Police responded to the King's Daughters' Hospital Emergency Room at 7:21 p.m. on April 2, to investigate an alleged case of child abuse. The infant was treated at KDH and then transported to Louisville for additional care.

The investigation, led by Detectives Ricky Harris and Kyle Cutshaw, who were assisted by Senior Patrolman Aaron Watson and the Indiana Department of Child Services, resulted in the warrant for Brandt's arrest as well as felony neglect and false informing charges against the boy's mother, Destany Jae Burge, 19, Madison, back in April.

Brandt was an acquaintance of Burge at the time of the incident, and his charges stem from the injuries sustained by the infant. Burge was arrested for neglect of a dependent, also a Level 3 felony, and false informing, a Class A misdemeanor.

Brandt was taken into custody without incident at 6:10 p.m. on Tuesday and is currently incarcerated at the Jefferson County Jail on a $50,000 cash bond.

CITY

Courtney outlined the plan Friday morning during the weekly COVID-19 briefing conducted by the Jefferson County Emergency Management Agency. Courtney said that the plan was developed after consultation not only with the state, but the local health department and the Jefferson County EMA. A copy of the plan will be published on the city's website.

"We are currently in Stage 2 of Gov. Holcomb's plan and there are four very specific criteria that need to be met in order to safely progress to the next level," Courtney said. "Right now, we're on track to reach that goal. Our statistics are very favorable right now and we continue to monitor the situation. But right now, we are progressing in the right direction."

Only one new positive COVID-19 case was reported in Jefferson County in the past week, bringing the county's total to 34 since the pandemic started. There has also been a decline in the number of individuals visiting the COVID isolation clinic at King's Daughter's Health, but the county did experience its first COVID-related death this week. Details on that individual are not being released.

"The only details that we are releasing at this time is that the individual is an adult who had been hospitalized for some time because of the illness," said Blythe Couch, the Public Health Coordinator for Jefferson County.

Couch said that of the 34 confirmed cases in the county, 74% were male and 26% were female, while 74% were from Madison and 18% from Hanover.

Courtney said the city will be ready to act if the numbers turn in the opposite direction.

"The plan that we put out is very flexible. We will continue to do our due diligence and will be proactive instead of reactive," he said. "Everything we've done can be reversed quickly."

A total of 1,189 tests have been administrated by KDH, according to KDH Director of Emergency Services Shane Williams. He said that the number of requests has been dwindling and as a result, the hospital will close down its COVID-19 hotline on the weekends.

"We only had three calls last weekend. We'll still have it Monday through Friday," Williams said. "If anybody shows any symptoms, they can go to the Convenient Care on the corner of Clifty and Cragmont and of course, if it's an emergency situation, they can dial 911."

The number of the COVID hotline is 812-801-8010.

Williams said KDH is slowly resuming all of its services that were canceled during the emergency, with physicians now able to see patients. He asks that anybody who enters the hospital please wear a mask or other face covering.

The state of Indiana is currently running a drive-thru testing clinic at North Madison Christian Church through Sunday. The clinic is free of charge and is open to Indiana residents only. It runs from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Couch said the state is running the clinic so she had few other details. She did say that the clinic administered 67 tests on Thursday and that the clinic was hopeful of getting symptomatic patients, health workers or other at-risk individuals, but it would see anybody.

"They seem eager to test as many as they can," Couch said. "We've been telling folks that call here to go and drive up and tell them what's going on. All they can say is no. I know they're a little worried about the forecast for storms this weekend. We'll just have to see how it goes."

Jefferson County remains one of the least-affected counties in southern Indiana with only Switzerland County, which has reported 15 cases, with fewer among bordering counties. Scott has reported 90 cases, Ripley 106, Jennings 111 and Clark 399. Clark had reported 29 COVID-related deaths, Ripley has had six, Jennings four and Scott two. Switzerland has yet to report a death.

Overall, Indiana has had 26,655 positive cases and 1,550 deaths. Marion County remains the hardest-hit area with a total of 7,995 cases and 465 deaths.

Across the Ohio River, Trimble County is still reporting three positive cases and Carroll County has two. Statewide, Kentucky has reported 7,225 cases and 328 deaths.

The next COVID-19 briefing for Jefferson County will be on Friday, May 22 at 10 a.m.

SCORES

Math scores were also the highest since the 2015-2016 year, jumping 3% compared to the 2018-2019 year.

Chief Academic Officer Kathy House credited much of the jump in scores to recent changes in test preparation and curriculum, including the implementation of Torch Prep, a standardized test prep program based in Newport, Kentucky.

"It's a nice indicator that these things are working," House said.

House said the district has put emphasis on reading and writing curriculum the past three years and looked more closely at individualized data as a measure of progress. The scores will be Trimble County's only indication of how students performed test-wise this year, since K-Prep and spring MAP testing were waived by the state as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Students took the test together March 10, three days before Trimble closed due to social distancing regulations. Testing dates have been set in September and October for those who missed the assessment, House said.

Compared to state averages in ACT data, Trimble County beat the state average of students meeting the benchmark in Reading (40%) and Math (29%) while testing slightly behind the English average (56%).

Also at Tuesday's meeting, Superintendent Jessica Wilcoxson gave an update on the district's plans for graduation and annual scholarship night. A virtual graduation in which students will be filmed walking across the stage in different time windows is set for May 15, while a virtual scholarship night will take place May 20.

Wilcoxson also said the district will continue to feed students and deliver free meals through May 22, at which time United Methodist Charities will take over providing meals for the summer.

The Trimble County Board of Education will meet again May 26 at 6 p.m.

SUPERATV

"We are forever grateful for the continued generosity of Mr. Harold Hunt and the entire SuperATV team," Studebaker said in a release concerning the donation. "This gift to our community and the families of Madison Consolidated Schools is so very appreciated, but perhaps even more so this year, given the uncertainties some of our families are experiencing around the COVID-19 pandemic."

The gift from SuperATV was the highlight of a board meeting that was conducted almost completely online due to COVID-19 crowd restrictions with only Board President Rob Kring, Studebaker and Administrative Assistant Pam Smith, along with the media, on hand in person. The other four board members were present remotely via video conferencing.

The board ran through several items during the 30-minute session, including honoring the district's teacher of the year and employee of the year (See related story on Page A10 of today's edition).

The school board also approved a proposal by Studebaker to help non-certified staff member who have been working during the COVID-19 shutdown. Emergency personal days were granted to such staff, but those who were deemed essential employees, such as cafeteria workers, have had personal days accumulate. In the past, those days could not be carried over to the next year but the board voted to waive that rule, allowing those workers to keep their personal days.

The board also approved a request to designate scoreboards at both fields of the soccer complex obsolete. The boards, now surplus, will be donated to the City of Madison and new boards, paid for through advertising commitments, will be installed in their place.

The board also approved the purchase of new copy machines, change orders for LED lighting being installed as part of an improvement project at the high school football field, hired summer staff members, and renewed its longtime relationship with King's Daughters' Health to provide athletic training services to all athletic programs.

The next meeting of the Madison School Board of Trustees will be Wednesday, June 10.

Blue Grass Depot destroys projectiles carrying nerve agent

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RICHMOND, Ky. — A stockpile of Cold War-era projectiles carrying a deadly nerve agent has been destroyed in Kentucky, the first project of a new chemical weapons destruction plant to be completed.

Officials at the The Blue Grass Chemical Agent-Destruction Pilot Plant have destroyed a stock of 8-inch projectiles that carried about 28 tons of GB agent, also known as sarin. The munitions were destroyed May 11, according to a release from the facility.

The full stockpile of weapons before the facility opened included more than 500 tons of mustard gas, sarin or VX agent. It is stored at an Army depot near Richmond, some of it since the 1940s.

"This is not just a completion of a campaign, but it marks the complete destruction of a type of chemical weapon from the U.S. stockpile," the facility's project manager, Candace Coyle, said in the release.

Nerve agent destruction operations began at the plant on Jan. 17, using a process of neutralization with water and chemicals.

Wary of wading into dating waters

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: In the current COVID-19 crisis a lot of people are online dating. I've never done it before but am interested in trying it. The problem is I am having a hard time believing people are who they say they are on their profiles, because of all the catfish stories I've heard about. How do I find a relationship if I have doubts about the person on the dating site? — First-Time Online Dating Doubter

Dear Doubter: You're wise to be wary. Online dating is a wonderful tool, but there are always going to be some malicious actors who use it as a weapon. Fortunately, you can take steps to protect yourself. First, do your research. When you're messaging with someone on a dating site, Google their name and see if they have social media accounts. Paste or upload their profile photo to Google's "Search by Image" page to make sure that they didn't take the photo from somewhere else on the internet. Second, the standard advice would be to go on a date as soon as possible — in a safe, public place. The quarantine version of that is to video chat. This is not only smart for avoiding catfishing; it also helps you avoid wasting time chatting online with someone whom you may have no chemistry. Lastly, trust your gut. If something seems off, it probably is. There are plenty of fish in the sea who aren't up to anything fishy.

Dear Annie: I would like to add to the warning from "Sad Daughter" regarding scams on older people like her parents. I have worked in financial services for 35 years, and over the last several years these scams have grown exponentially. Her parents should not be embarrassed. I have seen some very smart, competent people taken by these professional crooks. Everyone needs to be aware that these con artists come up with new scams all the time, and anyone can be vulnerable to the right story that plays on emotions such as love and fear.

Please let your readers know that the biggest red flag when being conned is the word "cash." When that word is used, hang up the phone. I guarantee, 100% of the time, it is a scam. No one moves cash anymore. The firm I work for transfers millions of dollars every day to individuals, corporations, charities, the Social Security Administration, the IRS and, in a few cases, law enforcement. None of the entities I have mentioned will ever ask you for cash nor would we ever be willing to send untraceable cash. Con artists and other crooks are the only ones who like to use cash.

Another caution is that some sophisticated crooks set up phony bank accounts. They might use a friend's or relative's name with one letter changed — like a different middle initial --which is hard to catch. The fact that the con artist wants an electronic transfer to an account does not mean it is legitimate, and you still need to proceed with caution. — Have Seen Too Much of It

Dear HSTMOI: Fraud has only gotten worse during the pandemic, and your letter is a helpful reminder to stay vigilant. In addition to asking for cash, scammers often seek payment via gift cards, which can be as untraceable as cash.

Nurses offer a hand to hold

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: We hear so many accounts of sick relatives dying alone in the hospital and family members feeling helpless and guilty because they can't be by their side, even though it's not their fault. I'm a retired nurse, and I hope I can let these families know that their mom or dad, spouse or loved one is not dying alone if their nurses can help it.

Taking care of these critically ill patients, it's easy to become attached to them, and most nurses are trying to take care of them, treating them as if they were their own parent or loved one. They aren't just giving their patients the best medical care they can possibly give; they try to give as much compassion as possible.

You see, being a nurse is our chosen profession, but being a nurse isn't just what I do for a living; it is who I am! I have written a poem that I hope makes some family feel a little less helpless.

'A HAND TO HOLD'

BY PATTY PALMER

"Lying in a hospital bed there in the ICU

"She tries to calm her fears not knowing what to do.

"The nurse tells her that she's been ill for quite a while.

"She holds her hand while she explains with a kindly smile.

"Wondering where her family is since they aren't there with her

"She calls out but the tube in her throat allows her not a word.

"The kindly nurse explains to her that visitors are not allowed.

"The virus spreading rapidly prevents any size of crowd.

"Feeling so alone as a tear falls down her feverish cheek.

"She's never been this sick before and feeling very weak.

"The nurse takes a warm cloth and gently washes her face

"'Don't worry, I'm here with you and I'm not going anyplace.'

"A soothing bath the nurse gives to her, helps her to relax.

"Keeping up a light banter as she finishes up her tasks.

"Her heart is growing weaker and her color isn't good

"But the nurse goes on acting as normal as she could.

"She brushes her patient's hair and forms it in a braid

"She knows this lady is dying and asks the Lord, let her not be afraid.

"As this ailing patient's life is heading toward the end

"She holds her hand and sings to her, not as a nurse but as a friend.

"The machines show her vital signs are heading for a drop

"And her new friend stays with her until they entirely stop.

"This nurse has done all she could to make the end less cold.

"No patient should have to die alone without a hand to hold.

"She quietly leaves the room with a tear in her eye.

"Nurses are strong but sometimes they still do cry.

"She dries her eyes and blows her nose shaking off her heart.

"Heading toward the next room where again she'll do her part.

"I hope this poem makes some family feel a little less helpless.

"I'm not just a nurse, it's who I am!"

Dear Patty: I am reading this with a tear in my eye. Thank you for sharing your beautiful, compassionate poem, and thank you to all nurses, with their kind smiles, full hearts and strong hands.

Jefferson County Community Art Show winners announced

BY SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Psi Iota Xi Sorority and the Jefferson County Public Library announced three winners in the Jefferson County Community Art Show recently. A total of 55 pieces of art were submitted to the online contest.

Winners by category are: Adult Category, Sarah Fisher, for her photograph, "Garden Spider;" Middle and High School Category, Ash Dunham, for her painting, "July Self Portrait;" and Elementary Category, Addison Renecker, for her painting, "Vincent Van Goh, Inside Her Silhouette."

Fisher and Dunham receive $100, and Renecker receives a kit of art supplies of like value. The Art Show began Thursday, May 7. Photos of all art are currently available for viewing in photo albums in the Jefferson County Community Art Show Facebook Group, which is a closed group on the Library's Facebook page. Anyone can submit a request to join and all Jefferson County residents are encouraged to do so.

People's Choice voting has now closed and winners will be announced soon.

The community art show was inspired by the Art and Drawing classes that began at the Madison Public Library two years ago with an initial donation from Psi Iota Xi Sorority. The sorority wanted to continue to encourage local amateur artists in new ways and decided to showcase new talent by organizing a community-focused amateur art show.

Jefferson County Public Library and Art Instructor Russell Vossler were excited to partner with Psi Iota Xi to present the show. However, plans were changed to an online virtual platform when the library building closed in the concern of public safety due to the pandemic. Amateur artists were encouraged to register using a Google form, join the art show Facebook group, and submit a photo of their work into the photo album for their age category.

"The art submissions were all impressive, and the participants and spectators alike have noted that it was a wonderful outlet for creative expression and provided a wonderful diversion during an otherwise unsettling time." said JCPL Children's Librarian Kara Motsinger.

Founded in 1897, Psi Iota Xi is a charitable organization supporting communities in the fields of speech and hearing, art, music, and literature. Psi Iota Xi is also known in many communities by the various fundraising and assistance endeavors conducted by its local chapters. Any woman 18 or older who is interested in joining the sorority is urged to call 317-471-3512 or visit https://www.psiiotaxi.org/ for more information.

Jefferson County Public Library was founded in 1818 and its mission is to serve the community with opportunities to obtain and use information in a variety of formats, to pursue lifelong learning, to explore recreational interests, and to better understand personal and regional heritage. Libraries are located in Madison and Hanover, Indiana.

The Rev. Bessenger receives Congressional invite

The Rev. Aubrey Bessenger

BY COURIER STAFF

A former teacher and principal in Jefferson County has been invited to give the daily invocation before the U.S. House of Representatives later this year at the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C.

The Rev. Aubrey Bessenger, a former teacher at the Lydia Middleton and Dupont schools in Jefferson County and principal for 13 years at Dupont, will give the prayer on Sept. 30, after being invited by Congressman Greg Pence recently.

Bessenger, who was also pastor at Lancaster Baptist Church for 16 years, lives in Hayden and is chaplain of the Jennings County Republican Party.

He gives the prayer annually at the county's Lincoln Day Dinner and has previously given the invocation at the Indiana State Legislature.

It was at a Lincoln Day dinner that Pence saw Bessenger, now 85, in action, leading to the Congressional invitation.

FOOD GIVEAWAY

North Madison Christian Church will host a drive-thru food giveaway on Saturday, May 23 at the church.

The giveaway runs from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. and is open to anyone with need.

The church is located directly across from King's Daughters' Hospital at 1400 East State Road 62. For more information, call 812-273-1601.
